

SPECIFICATION AMENDMENTS

On page 39, please replace the paragraph beginning at line 7 with the following paragraph:

B1 A handheld computer as described above may further include a sensing device that produces a signal that is dependent upon the relative position of the first segment and the second segment. This signal may be used by the handheld computer to configure the visual output of the display.